

Middle School Literacy Resources

READERS ARE LEADERS

The following are resources for families to learn more about supporting literacy development in middle school students.

WIDEPENSCHOOL

This site is a gateway to many resources for students and families from a variety of online sources including fun reading and writing activities for kids in grades 6-8 to do at home. <https://wideopenschool.org/>

CFEC community partner website with an extensive list of sites to access literacy activities and games for learning at home, audiobook options for teens, and virtual field trips. <https://sites.google.com/view/sccl-resources-covid19/home>

A wide variety of resources available to students of middle school grades with diverse topics to support learning at home, including literacy activities for reading and comprehension. <https://www.pbslearningmedia.org/collection/midlit/>

This collection of reading materials and articles in both English and Spanish languages for middle school students covers a variety of topics. <https://www.tweentribune.com/category/tween78/>

